

Our Commitment to Nurses

At Johnson & Johnson, we are committed to advocating for, elevating and empowering nurses as innovative leaders who improve patient outcomes and strengthen health systems.

Nurses are the backbone of health systems worldwide, and the COVID-19 pandemic has placed a spotlight on the importance of the nursing profession like never before.

Johnson & Johnson is proud of our 120-year commitment to advocating for, elevating, and empowering nurses as innovative leaders who can improve patient outcomes and strengthen health systems.

Together with our partners, we are working to strengthen health systems by supporting and empowering nurses and frontline health workers as innovative leaders guided by the Johnson & Johnson Center for Health Worker Innovation, focusing on:

- Training & Education: Resources and development opportunities to build and enhance professional skills
- Leadership & Management: Opportunities to grow as leaders and managers
- Connection & Integration: A network of nurses and resources within and across health systems and communities
- Respect & Recognition: Appreciation and value in the communities in which they serve, as well as appropriate accreditation and compensation
- Well-being & Resilience: Resources to help prioritize their own health and manage the demands of their role

We believe nurses change lives, and that changes everything.

Coronavirus Response Fund for Nurses

Johnson & Johnson and the TYLENOL®, NEUTROGENA®, AVEENO® and JOHNSON'S® BABY brands are proud to support the launch of the American Nurses Foundation's Coronavirus Response Fund for Nurses with a $1.9M commitment. This fund provides financial aid, mental health support, training and advocacy related to COVID-19.

Johnson & Johnson Center for Health Worker Innovation

In March, the Johnson & Johnson Family of Companies and the Johnson & Johnson Foundation committed $50 million to support and supply frontline health workers—from meals to protective equipment, extra training to mental health support. This commitment expands upon a $250 million multi-year commitment made earlier this year to support those at the frontlines guided by the Johnson & Johnson Center for Health Worker Innovation.
